The Kapyong
Comprehensive
High School
(1998)

Purpose: To continue the tradition of assistance to the Korean community of Kapyong first started by members of the 40th Infantry Division during their service in the Korean War. This tradition began when members of the 40th Infantry Division "passed the helmet" to raise funds for the construction of an orphanage and school, at Kapyong. Kenneth Kaiser High School, named for the first 40th Division soldier killed in action in Korea expanded many times in the years since gone by, still stands today as the Kapyong Comprehensive High School. This is a proud testimony to the generosity of the soldiers and families of the 40th Infantry Division.
